The partial failure of the crop in the Canadian Northwest will undoubtedly fall heavily upon new settlers in that territory. Indeed there are already reports that immigration to that part of the world has fallen off abruptly. For more than a year back there has been a steady exodus of American farmers, chiefly from the Northern States, to the Canadian Northwest, the movement reaching its zenith last spring, when the Dominion Government opened up large tracts of new lands for settlement in Mani-Saskatchewan, Alberta and British abia. More than 150,000 farmers were said to have crossed the border this year and now it is said that the movement has entirely ceased and even that many of

COTTON BEARS HAVE A TURN

KNOCKED $4 A BALE OFF JULY FOR A WHILE.

Told Sinful Stories About Bulls Selling Out and Civing Out-When the Price Were Well Down the Buils Came Back and Took On Some More Cotton. The bears got there yesterday with that break in the cotton market which they have been trying to land for several days. July options dropped 80 points, or $4 a bale, from Monday's mark. August went off 60 and there ware dips of 35 to 25 on the rest of the list.

There was a considerable depreciation at the opening of the market, but it was in the second hour of trading that the decline showed fully. The rumor cir-culated almost immediately that the bulls had sold out and that the deal on July options was just about over. This fair to-day and to morrow report travelled fast all over the country and it had the effect of hammering prices still further down. Finally some of the leaders among the bulls came back and began bidding for blocks of July. They declared that the reports make it look like inside profit taking.

An unsettled feeling began to spread, and the bears, thinking that the built protection had been taken from thesmaller traders for the moment, went into things hammer and tongs. The bulls didn't make an effort to stop the decline until thad expansion is the decline until thad expansion is set. had exhausted itself

Third exhausted itself.

July had dropped from 16 10 to 15.65, and the collapse in that option toppled over August for 50 points and September for 30, with the rest breaking from 20 to 15.65 from the morning's high mark. The loss from Monday night's prices was 80 for July, 60 for August, 37 for September and 5 and 25 and 20 for the rest.

for July, 89 for August, 37 for September and 25 and 29 for the rest.

About this time William P. Brown and Frank Hayne came into the ring and began their bidding and denunciations of the rumors attributed to the bears. There was an immediate response of about 10 points for the general list, 29 for August and 30 for July. Brown, the chief of the buils, bid 15 85 for 25,000 bales of July in this rally. There was very little steadiness in the afternoon, although no other. in this raily. There was very little steadiness in the afternoon, although no other break occurred.

The opinion seemed to be general that these drops had been a good thing for the market. On Monday prices had reached such a point that the market was cornering itself and the tightness that pervaded it didn't make for natural conditions of trading. The whole situation seemed to be cleared up considerably by the day's dealings, although the short coverers who had been largely responsible for Monday's high mark displayed a tendency to put out new lines of shorts.
